“ Times were rough and we had many ups and downs but looking back we had so many memories like this that we can not help but laugh about. I remember this day Darrell was constantly kicking me in the butt and we were laughing until I got irritated so when Darrell decided to keep going you stepped in and started annoying him. So I decided to take a picture while you annoyed him. The laughter was just constant that night and it's a memory of of SO many I will anyways enjoy. I love you mom
