“ You always here stories in Nursing that as a Nurse “They May not remember your name, but they will never forget how you made them feel” In Long term Care they become your family, Senora was one of those people who left an Impact of my life, I started caring for Senora back in 2014/2015 as a Nurse over the years we became very close and we spent a lot of time together, when Anna or Micheal couldn't be there due to work I would always be her go to gal, whether it was to an appointment or Christmas Dinner last year and let me not forget Me running to Casey's gas station to get her pizza because she didn't like what was on the menu, we shared pizza many times the one thing I could get her to eat. When she didn't want to get out of bed I would be able to go in and give her that drive to get up, I went with her to get Diabetic shoes and she looked at me and said “Let's go get Burger King” I looked at her and said she hat do we have to do to get this driver to take us there, lol she talked about it the entire way back to the Western Home. I thought of like my own grandmother I feel so honored to have been able to know and care for her, it's really hard to think of one particular special moment all I can say is she was my “Sassy Pants” and boy she knew it, it was hard to let her go When she finially got a private room she always wanted but she was so happy and that's what mattered. She will always hold a special place in my heart and will be one that I will never ever forget I loved her like she was my own grandmother I will miss her stories and the love she had for her grandkids and great grand babies she would just light up when talking about them, she had a smile you just can't forget or her sassy personality she would give it to me every now and then especially when I took vacation or I couldn't go with her to an appointment. I will miss you senora I love you and will never ever forget you! So very sorry for your loss Anna, She is your Angel now. With Deepest Sympathies to you and your family.
